Wonderful Array of Gowns

Women who are interested in beautiful gowns, in perfect millinery creations, in wonderful pearl necklaces and jewels of every form conceivable should see "The Yellow Typhoon," a First National photograph which starts Anita Stewart in Harold McGrath's greatest adventure story, which picture will be shown at Love's Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Stewart, who plays a dual role in the picture, wears some of the most wonderfully artistic creations ever seen. They were made specially for her for this picture and imported from Paris. As "The Yellow Typhoon," the woman who lives for pleasure and excitement, she has a new gown on almost every time she appears. And every one of them are up to the minute and the last word in style and artistry.

It is a thrilling melodrama of twin sisters, one good and one bad, who finally cross each other's path in the Great War, one as a spy for an alien government and the other in the secret service of the United States.
